CATHY VARANO

Chief Program Officer
NY Alliance for Inclusion & Innovation
www.nyalliance.org

Cathy Varano has been active in the field of developmental disabilities since 1978. As a young person who loved the outdoors and staying active, she volunteered at the CT State Special Olympic games in high school and never looked back. She began her career as a student intern at a community-based organization, an opportunity that influenced her desire to learn more about the people she worked with. It didn't take long for this work to become her passion and full-time career. Beginning as a Direct Support Professional shaped her desire to lead teams and advocate for individuals with I/DD and the DSP's that support them.

Cathy's formal education is in social work and public health administration; however, she readily acknowledges, she has learned so much more from the people she's met along the way. Cathy has a unique perspective, having worked in the nonprofit sector in positions from Direct Support Professional to Executive Director, and the state operations sector in OPWDD as a State Operations Director, followed by serving as the Associate Deputy Commissioner for State Operations. A primary focus for Cathy has been one of advocate for the people supported and the staff that provide supports.
